

Siege Theatre understands that there are some limitations when it comes to outdoor productions. We endeavour to start and finish every performance, whatever comes our way, so please come prepared for all types of weather. Bringing a jumper, raincoat and extra socks is just as important as a sunhat, sunglasses and the sun cream.

Now although the vast majority of performances are completed each year, because the auditorium and stage are completely uncovered, we may have to stop and restart the show or, on a rare occasion, cancel altogether.

In the event of a cancellation prior to the stated start time, Siege Theatre will contact all pre bookers and offer them an alternative date to see the production. If no date can be found, refunds will be issued.

Once the show has started, we will endeavour to complete the whole performance and therefore no refunds will be offered if, in the end, we have to call a halt to proceedings. All customers will of course be offered the chance to come back and see another show within our run, should they wish to view the sections they may have missed, but we will be unable to offer any money back.

We really don't want to disappoint anyone - audiences or our actors (who are always keen to perform) and therefore will make a fair and informed decision on show cancellations.
